Sources of Birth, Marriage and Death Records

204 Research Guide

This research guide provides information on sources of birth, marriage and death information at the Archives in Ontario in addition to vital statistics records created by the Office of the Ontario Registrar General that are also in the Archives’ collections. (For information on vital statistics records, click here to consult Research Guide 202: Vital Statistics Records)

All linked descriptions for records mentioned in this guide are available in our online Archives Descriptive Database. You will find the database and all guides mentioned in this guide in the “Start Your Research” section of our website. Ask a reference archivist for information on accessing the other records.

THE RECORDS

In addition to Ontario vital statistics records, the Archives has various church, court, local and non-governmental records documenting births, marriages, deaths and burials in Ontario.

Church Records Collection (F 978)

The Archives has a few parish registers and other church records, and baptism, marriage and burial records of travelling ministers who were not attached to a particular parish of congregation. [Click here to access the online finding aid for more information.]

Some of the records in this collection are available on self-service microfilm in the Reading Room or [click here for information on how to access the records using our Microfilm Interloan Service].

See also the information on the Archives’ Marriage Records Collection and Other Non-Governmental Records collections, below.

Please note that most church records that still exist are in the custody of the archives of each religious denomination. You will need to know the denomination of the persons involved and the location of the event to determine which religious archives to contact. [Click here to access a list of church and other religious archives in Ontario.]
Marriage Records Collection (F 982)

The Marriage Records collection is an artificial creation of the Archives of Ontario. It assembles miscellaneous marriage certificates, licenses and registers in one place which cannot be assigned to any one specific church.

The collection includes marriage contracts, baptism records, cemetery transcripts and data on births, marriages and deaths abstracted from newspapers and Old Age Pension applications, and a set of instructions about the issuance of marriage licenses. Some of the records have indexes.

Most of the records in the collection document marriages performed in Ontario, but the collection also documents marriages performed in Alberta and in La Prairie, Québec.

Upper Canada Marriage Bonds

Marriage bonds were documents issued prior to the issuance of a marriage license. They were signed by two friends or relatives of the couple, who assumed liability in case of impediment to the marriage. Marriage bonds have little information besides the names of the betrothed and the guarantors, their places of residence and the date and value of the bond.

Most bonds are in the custody of Library and Archives Canada. Click here to access Library and Archives Canada’s website. (www.collectionscanada.gc.ca). The 1803-1848 bonds and the accompanying index are available in the Archives' Reading Room and through inter-library loan from Library and Archives Canada. Click here to access the description for the Upper Canada marriage bonds (D 354), 1803-1848 for more information.

There is a database for the 1803-1865 bonds at Library and Archives Canada on their website. Bonds for the years 1803-1834 are transcribed and indexed in

Marriage License Affidavits

Under the 1896 Act to Consolidate the Act respecting the Solemnization of Marriage (59 Vict. chap. 39) each person wishing to marry was required to swear that the parties involved were not related and thus a lawful marriage could be enacted.

Click here for information regarding the Winchester Township, County of Dundas, 1897 (RG 8-18), held at the Archives of Ontario. Each form has basic information about the parties, including their place of birth, age, and residence.
