
Finding Divorce Files in Ontario

210 Research Guide

Most Recent Update:
September 2016

Divorce files are typically filed at the county courthouse where the divorce hearing took place. They may include the petition for divorce, affidavits, the degree nisi and the decree absolute (also referred to as the judgement absolute). Some files may also include examinations, documents relating to child custody, copies of marriage certificates and photographs of the people involved. For divorces occurring in York County, see Research Guide 211: Finding York County Divorce Files.

Getting Started

Step 1: When did the divorce take place?

In order to find a divorce file, you need to know when the divorce took place. There are three sources of records for divorces in Ontario. They cover the periods 1867 to 1930, 1931 to 1980, and 1981 to the present.

For divorces that were granted between 1867 and 1930:

Until 1930, only the Federal Parliament could grant a divorce in Ontario through a Resolution or an Act of Parliament. Couples had to have a private member's bill (a bill that a Member of Parliament presented to the House of Commons) requesting that their divorce be granted.

All divorces granted by the Federal Parliament are indexed. Click here to access the index on Library and Archives Canada's website. Divorces granted between 1867 and 1930 are also indexed in a book titled Index to Canadian Parliamentary Divorces, 1867-1930, by J. Brian Gilchrist and Nancy J. Duffy. This book is available in the Archives of Ontario's Reading Room and in major public libraries.

Resolutions and Acts of the Federal Parliament have been published, and most major libraries should hold a copy of them; click here to access the Library and Archives

Canada website for more information. For a certified copy of the Resolution or Act of Parliament for a divorce (needed for legal purposes), you must contact:

Office of the Law Clerk and Parliamentary Counsel
Senate of Canada
1310-40 Elgin Street
Ottawa ON K1A 0A4
613-992-2416

For divorces that were started between 1931 and 1980:

Since 1930, the Supreme Court of Ontario has had the power to grant a divorce. The Archives of Ontario holds all 1931–1980 Ontario divorce files.

- If the divorce occurred in York County (Toronto), please see Research Guide 211: Finding York County Divorce Files.
- If you know only the approximate year of the divorce or the location where the divorce occurred, you will need to use an index either at the Archives or at the courthouse where the divorce was filed. (See Step 2 of this guide for more information.)
- If you know the county/district, the file number, and the year of the divorce, you have the information that you need to obtain the divorce file. (See Step 3 of this guide for more information.)
- *If you do not find a reference to the divorce you are researching in the records mentioned under Steps 2 and 3 below, there is a small possibility that the divorce was granted through a resolution or act of Parliament (only up to July 1968). See the section on pre-1930 divorces above for more information.*

For divorces that were started from 1981 to the present:

These divorce files are available only through the local courthouse of the Superior Court of Justice where the divorce was filed. Table 2 in the Records section of this research guide lists the courthouse addresses and telephone numbers. You will need to find the file number and year of the divorce case. (See Step 2 of this guide.)

Step 2: Use Indexes to Find the Divorce File:

To find a divorce file, you need the file number, the year of the divorce and the name of the county or district where the divorce took place. Depending on when the divorce occurred, you will need to use either an Archives of Ontario index or an index at a county or district courthouse.

For divorces that were granted between 1931 and May 1949:

Go to the Archives or to the appropriate courthouse for the Index. The divorce files for these years are available only through the Archives. Unfortunately, the Archives does not have a province-wide index for these files. Each county or district courthouse created its own local procedure/judgement books of Supreme Court Actions. The Archives of Ontario has some of these books, but most are still at the local courthouse where the divorce was filed. To find the location of these index books for specific years, see Table 1 in the Records section of this research guide.

For divorces that were granted after June 1949 and started before July 1968:

Go to the Archives for the Index. The Archives has Province-Wide Indexes to Applications for Decrees Absolute (Series RG 22-5816) listing all the Decrees Absolute (or Judgements Absolute) applied for in Ontario. The indexes contain the names of the spouse seeking the divorce and the defendant(s), the application date for the Decree Absolute, the city where the application was filed and the application number that the court issued. These indexes are available on microfilm in the Archives' Reading Room.

Use Table 1 in the Records section of this research guide to find the microfilm reel that has the index for the year that the Decree Absolute was applied for (usually the same year that the divorce was granted). Look up the married surname.

For divorces that were granted between June 1949 and October 1964:

Write down the application date of the Decree Absolute and the city where the divorce was granted. Before you order the Divorce File, you will need to consult a second index in order to obtain the file number assigned to the divorce proceedings. Consult Table 2 at the end of this guide in order to determine whether the index for the year that you need is at the Archives or still at the courthouse.

For divorces granted after October 1964 and started before July 1968:

Write down the file number (generally the number on the first line), the year, and the city from the "Place-Writ No." column. Then, go to Step 3.

For divorces started from July 1968 to the present:

Contact the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings (CRDP). This is a Canada-wide record of divorce proceedings filed in a Canadian Court from July 1968. Click here to access the Department of Justice website where you can place your request by completing a search request form, providing your full name at birth and birth date as well as the name and birth date of your former spouse, the date of marriage and the approximate date of your divorce and mail it to the address below.

Should the CRDP identify a record matching the information provided, it can supply the number of the courthouse where the divorce took place, and the file number and year that you need to get your divorce file. Please note that the CRDP cannot confirm the status of a divorce proceeding or provide any legal document. Contact for the CDRP:

Department of Justice
Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings
284 Wellington Street
Ottawa, Ontario, Canada K1A 0H8
613-957-4519

If you are looking for another person's divorce file, you must use the indexes produced by the Supreme Court of Ontario in order to obtain the file number. See Table #2 at the end of this research guide to find out if the index for the year of the divorce you are researching is with the Archives or the Courthouse.

Divorce files prior to 1981 are available only through the Archives of Ontario. Divorce files for 1981 and after are available only through the local courthouse where the divorce was filed. Table 2 also contains a list of courthouse numbers, addresses and telephone numbers.

Step 3: Ordering a 1931–1980 Divorce File at the Archives of Ontario

Once you have the file number, the year when the divorce case began, the date it was granted and the county or district where the divorce took place, you have the information to order the divorce file. At this point, you should decide what documents you need from the Archives.

Do you need a certified copy of the Decree Absolute (or Judgement Absolute) granting the divorce?

The Archives' divorce files are stored at an off-site location. It may take up to 14 business days to retrieve, copy and certify a Decree Absolute. There is a $33.00 fee (plus HST) for certification. The certified copy can be mailed to you or picked up in person.

Or

Do you need to see the entire file?

The Archives' divorce files are stored at an off-site location. It takes a minimum of one business day to retrieve them. Please note that original files can be viewed only in the Archives' Reading Room in Toronto. Copies can be ordered by telephone if you know which documents are required. There may be a charge for photocopying.

To request a divorce file, contact the Archives of Ontario; contact information appears at the end

The Records

Tables 1 and 2 provide detailed information on finding divorce files in Ontario.
