So I believe trial running finishes tomorrow. (unsure how many days it was in the end – but certainly not 12) I am also unsure whether KPIs to measure it's success have been made public. Certainly, the software to measure trips and KMs was not working last week.

So assuming it's deemed a success, then there are meant to be 4 weeks of practice for OC Transpo. I think that will be potentially reduced and so I think it will be on or around 17th September. A number of us are unsure whether there is wisdom given the fragility of the rolling stock and signalling but others may be able to comment more on that

Mike
